HEALTH INSURANCE PORTABILITY AND ACCOUNTABILITY (HIPAA):

The HIPAA Privacy Rule provides federal protections for personal health information held by covered entities and gives patients an array of rights with respect to that information. At the same time, the Privacy Rule is balanced so that it permits the disclosure of personal health information needed for patient care and other important purposes.

We believe that all medical and other health information is private and should be protected. The Privacy Rule, a Federal law, gives you rights over your health information and sets rules and limits on who can look at and receive your health information. The Privacy Rule applies to all forms of individuals' protected health information, whether electronic, written, or oral. The Security Rule, a Federal law that protects health information in electronic form, requires entities covered by HIPAA to ensure that electronic protected health information is secure.

WHAT INFORMATION IS PROTECTED:

- Information your doctors, nurses, and other health care providers put in your medical record.
- Conversations your doctor has about your care or treatment with nurses and others.
- Billing information about you.
- Most other health information about you held by those who must follow these laws.

HOW IS THIS INFORMATION PROTECTED:

- Covered entities must put in place safeguards to protect your health information.
- Covered entities must reasonably limit uses and disclosures to the minimum necessary to accomplish their intended purpose.
- Covered entities must have contracts in place with their contractors and others ensuring that they use and disclose your health information properly and safeguard it appropriately.
- Covered entities must have procedures in place to limit who can view and access your health information as well as implement training programs for employees about how to protect your health information.

WHO CAN LOOK AT AND RECEIVE YOUR HEALTH INFORMATION:

The Privacy Rule sets rules and limits on who can look at and receive your health information. To make sure that your health information is protected in a way that does not interfere with your health care, your information can be used and shared:

- For your treatment and care coordination
- With your family, relatives, friends, or others you identify who are involved with your health care, unless you object
- To make sure doctors give good care
- To protect the public's health, such as by reporting when the flu is in your area your health information cannot be used or shared without your written permission unless this law allows it. For example, without your authorization, your provider generally cannot:
